The Princess Anne Was One Year Old Yesterday.

The Old Dominion gleamship Princess Anne came to the dock at Old Point yesterday with a profusion of bunding flying from her masts. Strangers took her for a warship and a number of excursionists from the West who had never seen a large ocean steamer before, insisted that the signal flags meant "Remember the Maine." That's where they were wrong. It meant that the Princess Anne was celebrating her first birthday.

This splendid steamer is the finest of the line. She is a 3,800-ton vessel and is provided with everything in the way of modern improvements. Her officers are J. G. Hulphers, who has been on the sea all Wis life and is one of the jolliest of men. G. E. Perkins, first officer. J. B. Sundall, chief engineer; W. H. Mayer, purser, and W. J. Owens, chief steward. Her first year of life has been frefrom mishap of any kind. She han ploughed through stormy seas as sw fully almost as if she had been floatin upon the bos m of an ocean as edin as that of which Coleridge dream d.

The Sick on the Concho Suffering from Typhoid.

The refusal of Dr. Pettus to permit the United States transport Concho to land her sick and wounded passengers at Old Point yesterday gave rise to the rumor that she has yellow fever on board. The report is untrue, Therewere four deaths on the ship before she anchored in Hampton Roads, but all were due to typhoid. One man, it is said, expired shortly after the steamer left Siloney and three others died just before she entered the bay. The bodie of the latter, it is said, were still on board yesterday.

None of the sick has shown symptoms

MAKING CLOTHESPINS.

By No Means the Least of Americar Industries.

A Famous Old English Inn in Process Hampstend, says the London Caterer is in process of transformation at the hands of the builders. Here Dickens came for a well-cooked chop and a bottle of good wine after a ramble on the Heath. Washington Irving introduces the inn in his "Tales of a Traveler," and it has always been a hostlery beloved of artists. Here, too, the old Courts Leet were held. As a matter of fact, the ancient face of the Catel Hotel is to be preserved, but the interfar will be entirely changed, the low rooms and bar being replaced by the loftier apartments and a modern buffer.

HYPNOTIZED BY THE "WASH,"

HYPNOTIZED BY THE "WASH."

An officer Who Was Pascinated by the Long White Wake.

The British steamship Howick Hall, on arrival at Colombo from home, says the Bombay Advocate, of India, had to report the loss of her third officer on the way out under rather unusual circlinstances. The officer, Ar. Francis Earnes, held the same office on a satisfing ship before he joined the Howick Hall recently. This was his first voyage on a steamer, and he was frequently seen looking over the stern rail, and a few days before making Colombo, when the sea was very rough, he was seen by another officer peering over the stern. Later on he was missing. The vessel was turned around at once and boats were launched, but, though much time was spent in looking for him, no trace could be found. He must have been hypnotized by the "wash" of the screw.

On reaching Marsellies it was left in the loggage room with other things. The curiosity of two railway employes being aurosed at the sight of it, they took off the covering and resolved to play a joke on their comrades. They placed the figure in an arm chair at the desk of the cashier and shut the door. When the employes on night service When the employes on night service came they opened the door and were surprised to see a man sitting down before the cash box. They immediate-ly closed and locked the door and ran hand, believing. Tike the employes, that he had to deal with a dangerous thief. He called on the figure to sur-render and fellow him to the starender and follow him to the sta-tion. As it did not obey the summons, the policemen shut the door and went in search of reinforcements to sur-round the place, and thereby to prevent the culprit from escaping. The door was again opened, the armed force entered, and it was not until they had suddenly pounced on the poor lay robber that they discovered the joke.

250,000 for One Word.

What would you think if you could make $250,000 by speaking a single word? Hou, William M. Evarets, say the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. one received the enormous fee of $250.

A great corporation desired a legal opinion on a matter involving millions of dollars, for upon it practically depended that corporation's very existence. They decided to refer the question, which was wholly one of the correct interpretation of law, to William M. Evarts, and to be guided wholly by his opinion. Their lawyer stated their case to the Senator, and asked him the important question. Evarts' reputation and success are wholly due, not tion and success are wholly due, not cases, but simply to his remarkable knowledge of law and his power, which seems almost like intuition, of deter-mining just how the Supreme Court will decide any question of law.

When the attorney for the great corporation put his question, so vitally important to that corporation's existence. Evarts sat buried in thought for a minute, and then answered in one word, "Yes." His bill for the one word was $250,000, and the corporation paid it without a murmur. Evarts' answe proved to be correct.

Lobsters Cause n Panie.

The wife of a Pittsburg real estate agent had expressed a desire for lobster. Not the common canned stuff, ster. Not the common canned stant, but live lobster, the real thing. and their owner had to stand. Suddenly a sharp-faced spinster startled the car with screams of "Help! Pickpockets! Police!" at the same time clutching the real-estate man's arm, "Conductor, have this man arrested!" she exclaimed.

Everybody looked at the supposed culprit and then those nearest the pair burst into laughter. One of the lobsters was still tugging at the lady's
